Across our nation, and across international boundaries, National Audubon works to protect birds along their flyways. How does Audubon do it? And, how do we in Connecticut fit in with their important work? David Yarnold, well known nationally and internationally for his outstanding work in conservation, will tell us about Audubon's conservation approaches to protecting birds and the places they need to survive and thrive. Before his talk, you'll enjoy a great buffet dinner, socialize with your LHAS friends, and meet leaders from other Audubon chapters in our state.
